Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-20 have been examined.

Response to Amendment

2. This action is in response to the Amendment filed 7/21/2009. This action is non-Final.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Alvesalo ("Alvesalo", US 2003/0222899).

As per claim 1, Alvesalo teaches method, comprising:

assembling in a first column a plurality of objects of a slide that are to be displayed successively one after the other when a multimedia presentation is played on a communication or computing terminal having a display device [0025]-[0026], and also assembling in a second column any and all objects of the slide that are to be displayed in parallel with and side-by-side with any of the objects of the first column when the presentation is played ([0021] parallel and [0025]-[0026]); and displaying at the same time the first and second column side-by-side on the display device in the same horizontal arrangement as the objects will be displayed when the presentation is played, for editing by a user [0025]-[0026].

As per claim 2, Alvesalo teaches a method as in claim 1, wherein the multimedia presentation is for communication as a multimedia message service message ([0004]).

As per claim 3, Alvesalo teaches a method as in claim 1, wherein a synchronized multimedia integration language is used to prescribe how the multimedia presentation is to be played, and the objects in the first column displayed for editing are the objects included in a sequential time container within a parallel time container of a code fragment according to the synchronized multimedia integration language

Art Unit: 2174

Claim 4 is similar in scope to that of claim 1 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claims 5 and 11 are similar in scope to that of claim 1 and are therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 6 is similar in scope to that of claim 2 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 7 is similar in scope to that of claim 3 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 8 is similar in scope to that of claim 1 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

As per claim 9, Avesalo teaches a method as in claim 1, wherein the second column includes only one object, which is to be displayed continuously when the presentation is played (Figure 4 above timeline or see figure 5 below audio and picture

Claim 10 is similar in scope to that of claim 9, and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 12 is similar in scope to that of claim 2 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 13 is similar in scope to that of claim 2 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

As per claim 14, Avesalo teaches a telecommunications network including a plurality of telecommunications terminals at least one of which includes an apparatus according to claim 11 ([0018] communication network).

Claim 15 is similar in scope to that of claim 9, and is therefore rejected under similar rationale

As per claim 16, Avesalo teaches a method as in claim 1, wherein the method further comprises receiving a signal from the user containing information that the user would like to prescribe one or more properties for an image being displayed in an edit mode ([0026]).

As per claim 17, Avesalo teaches a method as in claim 1, wherein the method further comprises presenting the user with a dialog box in which the user is able to provide one or more properties for an image to be displayed, including to indicate the duration the image is to be displayed ([0024] adjust the time allocated and defining durations).

As per claim 18, Avesalo teaches a method as in claim 17, wherein the method further comprises generating a code based on the one or more properties ascribed to each image and the arrangement of objects on the display device in an editor mode, including where the code is based on a synchronized multimedia integration language ([0004] SMIL).

As per claim 19, Avesalo teaches a method as in claim 1, wherein the method further comprises generating a code assuming a default duration for a slide into time segments of the same duration for each image, including where the code is based on a synchronized multimedia integration language ([0004] SMIL).

As per claim 20, Avesalo teaches a method as in claim 1, wherein the method further comprises presenting the user with a text editor by which the user can provide a code for a slide, including referring to images either based on names associated with each and included in respective properties of the images, or based on an order in which the images appear on the display device in an edit mode, and also including where the code is based on a synchronized multimedia integration language ([0004] SMIL and [0007])).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-20 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
